The Mission

NetPlay, Inc. (the Company) was founded to develop, market, and operate computer-based entertainment systems for playing multi-player games over interactive networks. NetPlay's products will be fun and family-oriented. NetPlay will take advantage of rapidly improving computer power and network band-width to deliver increasingly 'life-like' social interaction in an entertaining, safe, and rewarding environment.

The Vision

A multi-media computer connected to other people over the Internet can be a very entertaining and socially interactive device. Today's Internet is like the early days of the automobile. The information highway is more like a slow dirt road with potholes. But its future is bright, like the automobile, the appeal of the Internet will spread. Someday, when everyone can have affordable high-speed access, people will begin to think of their favorite places to access as channels of the NET. Welcome to one of the first channels, The NetPlay Game Club.

The Product

The NetPlay Game Club is the fun place to play games with family or friends across the country--live over the Internet. See their picture, chat during games or in cool chat areas, and win fabulous prizes!

The Founder

The company was founded in September of 1995 and is the brainchild of Leland J. Ancier. Leland is an experienced, successful software entrepreneur and received Inc. magazine's acclaimed

"Entrepreneur of the Year" award.

"I have dedicated NetPlay to bringing wholesome family entertainment to the Internet. I wanted to create a safe and fun place for children to play."

Leland is married to Alyce and they are the parents of two avid game players, Brandon, age 9, and Erica, age 6.
